

Visitor Access Pilot Project
Georgia State University Library
Atlanta Campus

During the Spring 2018 semester, January 8-April 16, the University Library will conduct a pilot project to expand visitor access at the Atlanta campus library in order to determine the impact on security, staffing levels, systems, and procedures. At the end of the pilot, we will gather feedback from students, security personnel, police, and library personnel to determine next steps.

During the pilot, visitors will be permitted to be in the library every hour that we are open, including weekends, until 9:00 p.m. Only currently enrolled students, faculty, and staff of Georgia State University will be permitted to remain in the building after 9:00 p.m., whenever the library is scheduled to be open past 9:00 p.m.

Visitors are required to provide current university or government-issued photo ID at the security desk, and all library patrons are required to abide by the University Library Conduct Policy, which will be strictly enforced. Library personnel are asked to report conduct policy violations to library administration, where violations will be documented and handled promptly.

At the Atlanta campus, during the week prior to final examinations and during the final examination period (April 17-May 1, 2018), access before 9:00 p.m. will be restricted to:

- currently enrolled students, faculty, and staff of Georgia State University;
- guests accompanied by a GSU faculty or staff member with valid ID;
- current GSU Alumni Association members with valid ID;
- GSU campus tours; and
- visitors who have made special arrangements with library administration.
